Market Trend:
Packer cows and bulls sold steady overall, with breaker cows trading $5 to $8 lower. Stocker steers and heifers held steady to slightly higher on the front end, high – quality cattle across all weight classes. Lower quality cattle sold $3 to $10 lower, depending on size, condition, and overall quality. The futures market moved lower this week, causing buyers to be a little more cautious with their bidding, even so, strong supply-and-demand fundamentals kept buyers optimistic about the cattle market going forward. Overall, the market remained very solid and quality cattle continued to sell extremely well.
